

To All MPLA Members:

MPLA is now transitioning from interest groups represented by sections to electronic communities (ECs). The ECs will have a virtual space where members can ask questions, seek advice, and discuss topics online. There is a complete explanation of the ECs and how they will operate available in the April MPLA Newsletter and on the MPLA web site under “MPLA Transition Information” that will answer many questions for you. We are now ready for all members to register for the ECs to which they would like to belong. There is no charge for joining an EC, and you can join as many as you like. We will automatically enroll you in the EC that matches the section to which you currently belong, but many new choices are also now available that you will want to review. This is an innovation we believe will help you connect with your colleagues in the MPLA region with similar interests, and use technology to engage in a new kind of learning and exchange.

Please go to the MPLA web site and register for the Electronic Communities of your choice! It will take just a moment. We have set up a registration form on the web. If you are not getting this message electronically, go to the MPLA site at www.mpla.us to register.
