Montana Representative – April 2010

The Montana Library Association held the annual conference in Bozeman April 7-10. Over 330 members attended. New to the conference this year was a session of author readings, consisting of brief readings by popular local authors, and a Technology round-robin session, where attendees could choose to attend a 15-minute session to learn about 3 of 6 new technologies. Both of these new additions were popular. Plans for next year's joint conference in Billings are underway. Plans are also being made for following years: 2012 – Missoula, 2013 – Big Sky, 2014 – Billings. Butte is also being considered.

MLA voting will be done electronically this spring, along with polling the membership regarding ALA's Tribal Cultural Expressions resolution.
